MEDFORD'S BOY SCOUTS.

Organization Has Accomplished Many Good Stunts During Its Life.

Medford has a battalion of Boy Scouts of America which has made a record of which an organization of adults might well be proud. The scouts number 69 and have their own tent, which is well fitted up and was built and paid for by the boys themselves. Of the 69 scouts, 55 have uniforms, the rule being that the boys must earn their own uniforms before having them.

The boys have an average of $18 each in the bank, one having $75 and nine over $50 each.

In addition to what they have done for themselves and their organization, they have been active in charitable work. Last winter they gave a play, "The White Man's God," by which they realized $94, which was used in the purchase of school books for indigent children. They also distributed to poor families over $40 worth of clothes. They expect to put on another play this winter.

A party of the scouts who were camping at Colestin this summer saved the life of a man they found badly injured beside the track. He had fallen, while running after a train which he had missed, and had cut his hip dangerously. The boys applied their training in first aid to the injured and one of them walked through the tunnel to Siskiyou and telegraphed to Medford for a surgeon and to have a carriage meet them at the train. They took the man to the hospital in Medford at their own expense and had him cared for.

Another scout saved the life of a would-be suicide, administering the antidote for the poison taken.

They have a Sunday school of their own having over 40 members. The boys have the confidence of the people of Medford and have frequently been called upon to act as escort to prominent visitors to their home city. On Decoration Day they acted as escort to the G. A. R.

When it was learned that there would be a new floor put in one of the school rooms were it not for the lack of money to take up the seats, the boys took them up, carried them out of the building and stacked them up. They also make it a point to see that every new boy is made to feel welcome and if he has attended any Sunday school some boy from that school is selected to take him and see that he is made acquainted with his mates.

A vote of the scouts showed 68 for Roosevelt, 0 for any other candidate. Ashland has or did have a company of scouts and the Tidings would be glad to learn what they have accomplished.

ASHLAND HIGH SCHOOL

Personal Notes That Tell of Activities in the Realm of the Three R's.

Local athletics received a great boost during the institute when instructors from the various schools met and formed the Rogue River Athletic League, electing as president Leland Beveridge, principal of the Roosevelt school of Medford, Burt Adams of Gold Hill as vice-president, and Mr. Murphy of Grants Pass as secretary-treasurer. A constitution was adopted providing that each institution shall file its schedule with the president at least two weeks before a contest. It is hoped that this league will bring the schools closer together and will result in absolutely clean athletics and high standards of sportsmanship.

Those interested in debating also took the opportunity to lay plans for a Rogue River Valley Debating League, the purpose of which will be to get as many students as possible interested in debating work. The preliminary work of organization has been left to a committee composed of Mr. St. John of Ashland high, Mr. P. C. Smith of Talent, and Mr. J. C. P. Harrington of Jacksonville. The work of the league will not in any way interfere with the province of the State League but will be supplementary to it. While in many of the schools debating spirit is almost dead, this is not true at Ashland, as was shown in a rousing debating rally held on Monday evening. In a few words Principal Moore presented to the students the importance of debating as a preparation for public office or for a profession. Mr. St. John, who is to coach debating, then outlined the situation as it affects the Ashland high school and offered to give a course in debating after school hours to those who wished to take the work. Mr. Alvin Wheeler, Mr. Mills and Lynn Mowat gave enthusiastic and earnest talks, urging the students to support debating and especially to try out for the team this year, as, in the absence of old debaters, there is an equal chance for everybody. After the rally about 83, both girls and boys, appeared for the first class in debating.

The first distinctly junior event of the year occurred Tuesday evening, when a jolly party of 40, chaperoned by Miss Merrill and Mr. Coen, took a hayrack ride to Kingsbury Springs. Even the elements were in sympathy with the good spirits of the young people. The jovial face of the old man in the moon shone smilingly down in spite of the fact that a junior lass spoke of him as the "Gibson girl." Songs and stories were in order until the destination was reached, and there, around the campfire, "appeared" and disappeared an abundant supply of watermelons. And there were roasting ears and apples, too, from some unknown source. Games followed for an hour and then the party started homeward, all voting that this had been a good beginning for the "Jolly Juniors."

The freshmen of the high school were tendered a reception by the sophomores at the gymnasium last Tuesday evening. Games and storytelling occupied the evening and at no time was there any lull in the fun.

The class newspaper caused the most excitement. The editors of the several departments were applauded heartily when they were introduced under assumed names, a stunt devised by Willie Holmes. Mr. Ashcraft, who is fully competent to be editor of the Sunset, gave a stirring talk on class etiquette. After this all enjoyed a bounteous banquet, a fitting climax to a well-spent evening.

Thirty sophomores spent Thursday evening in the canyon above the park. The entertainment consisted of Mr. Coen's most famous collection of stories and games, also the product of Mr. Coen's intellect and initiative. Weenies, watermelons and bread constituted the refreshments. Mrs. Walker and Mr. Coen were chaperones.

Football stock took an upward trend when Elmer Ashcraft, the veteran half-back, returned to school. Two practices were held during institute week, with a large squad getting out.

Misses Florence Olds and Beatrice Miller, both seniors, have returned to high. The registration is now more than 200.

Many of the old high school grades were in town last week attending the institute. They combined business with pleasure by visiting friends and relatives when not attending the sessions of the institute.

Leland Reader, last year in the University of California, is now attending Stanford University.

GIVES BLOOD TO SAVE GIRL.

Transfusion of Life Fluid Successful—Man Gets Handsome Check.

San Francisco, Sept. 27.—A quarrel with her sweetheart sent Miss Anna Bohlin to the emergency hospital nearly dead, after an attempt at self-destruction today, but relatives discussed her hopeless plight in a cafe and a waiter who overheard the conversation volunteered to assist in an operation for the transfusion of blood which surgeons agreed was the only thing which could save her life.

The offer of the waiter, Oswald Schwartz, was accepted promptly. He was rushed to the hospital, an artery in his arm cut and bound to one in the girl's arm, and after several hours the operation was pronounced successful and the girl out of danger. A wealthy uncle of the girl rewarded the waiter with a check for $100.

Schwartz was very much put out when he found that he would have to remain in a hospital bed for several days himself, having looked upon his deed as a mere between-meal incident of the afternoon.
